

Listening Lesson Plan

Hey! Taxi!

Instructor:
Grace Lee

Level: Upper intermediate

Students: 8

Length: 50 minutes

Materials:

A picture (for eliciting )

A CD and a CD player

Comprehension questions (a table chart) & Vocabulary pre-check sheets (8 copies)

A map and a script for demonstration

Sheets including two giant boxes for drawing a map and making a dialogue(4 copies)

Aims:

SWBAT...discuss transportation and apply it to their actual life by listening to the conversation, describing what happens between a taxi driver and a passenger and making dialogues on their own.

SWBAT...guess key information contained in the recording.

SWBAT...identify some vocabularies in terms of transportation use

SWBAT...use filler words naturally only to have an authentic conversation in real-life situation

Language Skills:

Reading: Reading the vocabulary description and the script for demonstration that the instructor has already made firsthand.

Writing: Writing information of what learners have listened in the table, filling proper vocabularies in the blanks, and creating a conversation dialogue.

Listening: Listening to the talk from the recording, and the teacher instruction and students' ideas.

Speaking: Discussing what happens in the recording, sharing Ss' ideas about making their own dialogue and presenting it in front of classmates.

Language Systems:

Function: Information about the taxi fare and Recommendation of a fancy place to a passenger

Lexis: Learning new words and grouping verbs with appropriate prepositions

Phonology: Monitoring Ss' pronunciation

Assumptions:

Students already know

- ➔ All Ss are at an upper intermediate level.
- ➔ Ss can make a full sentence in writing.
- ➔ Ss already know teacher's teaching style
- ➔ Ss can have a short English talk each other.

Anticipated Errors and Solutions:

Making a dialogue might be tough and burdensome for students. To solve the problem, the teacher will suggest some interesting situations.

Just in case some students do vocabulary pre-check activity wrong way, the teacher could monitor how they work it on and if they do, the teacher may correct the errors.

If time is running out but students are yet to be done, let students know time is short and get it done as quick as possible.

If the teacher and students have time on their hands even though going all the contents through, the teacher could make a short review and ask about students' taxi ride
